Inhalt:

The second Master Module consists of two parts: First, an Advanced Seminar, which is designed to provide scope for independent research on a core topic in British Literature. The second part of the module promotes independent work by offering students a choice of two different forms their (monitored) period of self-directed study can take. Depending on what best benefits their work in the Advanced Seminar and the later MA-thesis, they can decide whether to study a core topic or to participate in the research programmes of Faculty Research Centres (such as the Interdisziplinäres Zentrum Literatur und Kultur der Gegenwart). If they choose the second option, they can spread their participation over the course of the third and fourth semester.

Lernziele und Kompetenzen:

The second master module continues the work on core topics in Literary Studies with a spotlight on independent application and research. It is designed to let students carry out independent research. Students can take up interdisciplinary perspectives to supplement their studies. The module also enhances students' skills in the following area:

Subject, Professional and Practical Skills: The module also trains the written presentation of complex correlations within a major academic genre (academic paper) and places special emphasis on the terminology and methods of literary theory. In doing so, it prepares students for the independent writing of an MA thesis.
