Empfohlene Voraussetzungen:

Successful completion of intermediary modules 4 and 5

Inhalt:

The advanced thematic seminar addresses key questions of American literary studies through exemplary cases. Potential fields covered are:

- Literary discourse viewed through the lens of theoretical approaches
- Cultural evaluation and reception of literary texts, processes of canonization
- History of genre (forms and functions)
- Literary and cultural memory
- Ethics and aesthetics
- Medial aspects of literary and cultural studies; changes in mediality, intermediality, the cultural impact of electronic media and digitalization
- Transculturation, creolization, hybridity in North American literatures

Lernziele und Kompetenzen:

Students acquire currency in a second thematic field within American literary studies and with relevance to contemporary research; they practice their ability to work critically and independently in compliance with academic standards, which they test by writing a short scholarly presentation and a final seminar paper. The Independent Study prepares students for their work towards a master's thesis and trains them in academic methodology and argumentation.
